Before Julie and David Eisenhower left for China, Julie confirmed what Pat Nixon had already told a friend here — that the William Fine so-called "exclusive" interview in the Ladies' Home Journal with her father was no interview. The visit with the ex-President was arranged "under false pretenses," said Julie, Fine representing himself as interested in hiring a former Nixon staffer. "Daddy's first interview would not be given to a woman's magazine. It isn't logical." Both her parents were surprised when the article appeared, said Julie.
